Some additional points for reflection

- Understanding the emergence of space for Indian grassroots innovation effort
- Idea of grassroots innovation as an attempt to create space for the politics of constructive action
- How well the social movements (third sector?) can be presented and reconstructed for the wider publics to be playing the role of the social carrier (s) of innovation
- Understanding the challenge of reconstruction of the role and functions of social movements and third sector organizations which we can reflect as a community of practitioners and committed academics.
